Ladies and Gentlemen:

As the legislative session enters its final days, we continue to monitor current tax receipts and the outlook for the state economy closely. To this point, I find no significant change in conditions which either add to or subtract from the estimates I have already given you.

Therefore, I continue to estimate that, under current law, the state will receive $36.5 billion from all sources during 1986-87.

We will continue to monitor conditions and keep you informed during the last critical days of the regular session.

Sincerely,

/s/BOB BULLOCK
